Support our golfers have fun and help a great cause

By Gina Vaile-Nelson
that newsletter girl

I've been part of this league now (actively -thanks Guard) for three years. I did two years before that in the 4-holers.

When I first started in this league, I was nervous. There are a lot of ladies here who could probably play on the LPGA -- not to even mention our high school girls!

Which is why it is so important for us to continue to give back. Not just to our own organization (through mentorship or philanthropies), but also to our local high schools who are teaching the next generation our beloved sport.

Consider sponsoring, or having your employer, a neighbor or a church friend sponsor a hole. The format will be fun, so grab your favorite guy (or even not so favorite guy) and sign up to play by July 15. You won't regret it because you'll see the benefits of your play and donation - whether it helps your game or when you see those 101ers double next year.

Oh, and on another note about supporting golfers .... if you're interested in serving as an officer for the JHLGC next year, please let me know. It will save you that embarrassment of "I NOMINATE (insert your name)" in front of all your friends at a potluck. (Thanks Eva Slusher).

The Juniper Hill Wednesday Ladies Golf League was established in the late 50s. Our goal is to promote competitive 18-hole play for ladies with an established USGA Handicap and to promote friendship and camaraderie. We have various formats of play each week and Match Play in the month of July. We participate in various tournaments sponsored by the Juniper Hill Ladies Golf Club. We also sponsor an invitational tournament, "The Juniper" which draws the best women golfers in Kentucky, Indiana and Southern Ohio.

The Late Swingers Ladies League was established in 1980 to promote and support women's golf in and around Frankfort. The league's goal was, and is, to have fun while playing golf.

Storms cancel play, but not memories of our dear friend

Rain canceled this year's Hello Dollie step-aside scramble, but it will be rescheduled for later in the season. Though we couldn't get out on the links to toast a beer to our beloved Miss Dollie, we were still able to share memories of this beautiful pillar of our league, and make new ones over delicious recipes from our members.

*Hello Dolly, .....well, hello, Dolly
 It's so nice to have you back where you belong
 You're lookin' swell, Dolly.....I can tell, Dolly You're still glowin'...you're still crowin'...you're still goin' strong
 I feel that room swayin'.....while the band's playin'*

*One of your old favourite songs from way back when
 So..... take her wrap, fellas.....find her an empty lap, fellas
 Dolly'll never go away again*

Arnold Palmer's etiquette reminders

some golden rules of golf, tune in next week for the last 5

I. Don't be the slowest player

In my casual games at Bay Hill, we get around in under four hours -- and that's in fivesomes. Evaluate your pace of play honestly and often, and if you're consistently the slowest one in your group, you're a slow player, period. Encourage everyone to move quickly enough so you find yourself right behind the group in front several times, both early and late in the round.

Remember the old staples of getting around in good time: Play "ready golf" (hit when ready, even if you aren't away) until you reach the green, be prepared to play when it's your turn on the tee and green, and never search for a lost ball for more than five minutes.

II. Keep your temper under control

In the final of the Western Pennsylvania Junior when I was 17, I let my putter fly over the gallery after missing a short putt. I won the match, but when I got in the car with my parents for the ride home, there were no congratulations, just dead silence. Eventually my father said, "If I ever see you throw a club again, you will never play in another golf tournament." That wake-up call stayed with me. I haven't thrown a club since.

Throwing clubs, sulking and barking profanity make everyone uneasy. We all have our moments of frustration, but the trick is to vent in an inoffensive way. For example, I often follow a bad hole by hitting the next tee shot a little harder -- for better or worse.

III. Respect other people's time

Because time is our most valuable commodity, there are few good reasons for breaking a golf date. Deciding last-minute to clean the garage on Saturday, or getting a call that the auto-repair shop can move up your appointment by a day, just doesn't cut it.

Always make your tee times, and show up for your lesson with the pro a little early. Social functions are no exception.

IV. Repair the ground you play on

I have a penknife that's my pet tool for fixing ball marks, but a tee or one of those two-pronged devices is fine. As for divots, replace them or use the seed mix packed on the side of your cart.

Rake bunkers like you mean it. Ever notice that the worse the bunker shot, the poorer the job a guy does raking the sand? Make the area nice and smooth -- don't leave deep furrows from the rake. Before you exit the bunker, ask yourself, Would I be upset if I had to play from that spot?

V. Be a silent partner

During one of my last tour events as a player, I noticed another pro making practice swings in my field of vision as I was getting ready to hit a shot. I stopped, walked over and reminded him (maybe too sternly) that it was my turn to play. The point is, stand still from the time a player sets himself

Be mindful of tip #3. Our tournament committee spends a lot of time developing scramble play and evening the playing field. It's not fair to them, or your team to cancel play the day-of (emergent situations understandable) or simply be a no-show.

until the ball has left the club.

Even with the advent of spikeless shoes, the etiquette rule of never walking in someone's line of play on the putting green is an absolute. The area around the hole in particular is sacred ground. The first thing to note when you walk onto a green is the location of every ball in your group, then steer clear of their lines to the hole.

Know where to stand and when to keep quiet. Position yourself directly across or at a diagonal from a player setting up. Never stand on the line of play, either beyond the hole or directly behind the ball. When a player is about to hit a shot, think of the fairway as a cathedral, the green a library.

Rollin' .... Rollin' ..... Rollin' down the fairway

JHLGC Situation #3

Lesla and Donna are playing Hole #5, and both have hit good tee shots into the same general area. They go forward to search for their balls and find 2 Titleist Pro-V1 balls with a #2 on them about 10 yards apart. Neither player had placed an identifying mark on their ball, so they cannot tell which ball belongs to which player. Since they are so close together, they agree to pick a ball and proceed. They play out the hole with their chosen balls and hit their tee shots on Hole #6 onto the green. What is the ruling?

Ruling

Because both players could not identify their own ball, both balls were "lost," and neither ball should've been played. This breach of rules is required to be corrected before the player tees off on the next hole, or on the last hole of the round, to state their intention to correct before the player leaves the putting green. In this case, when they hit their tee shots on Hole #6, Lesla and Donna are both disqualified. (Dec. 27/10 - Definition of Lost Ball, Ball in Play and Wrong Ball; Ryle 15-3b).
